Bradley	James	806 North Wilcrest	Houston	77079	I would like to protest the edict requiring all consumers to have smart meters installed and I do not want one installed on my home. I accept the idea that it is reasonable to have a meter that can accurately measure how much electricity I consume for the purpose of billing. I do not accept that there needs to be two-way communication with the meter and other technology "advances" that permit monitoring and management of consumer use of electricity. In essence, this will allow even more intrusion and management of my personal life without my consent. While I recognize that utilities are quasi-private entities, they clearly are operating under government control and they are using the PUC's rule making authority to enforce the installation of these meters. This gateway to greater information about my home and family as well as the ability to institute controls which obviously could be exercised by a government theoretically required to have court permission to enter my home in other ways is anathema to Texans and to any conception of a free people. The fact of the matter is that a resident of a large city has very few choices in acquiring electric power and far fewer options than our more rural brethren. The fact that a new technology is being foisted on us which has these kinds of surveillance and control potentials is unacceptable. I would like to speak with someone who has the power to undo the requirement that every house get one of these meters. Jim Bradley 713-568-8917
Audin	Katherine	8506 Merlin Dr	Houston	77055	The PUC should enforce strict protections over any entity that gets access to my smart meter data. Smart meters collect an unprecedented, large amount of data about our energy use. Texas law protects the privacy of my electricity consumption information, yet the PUC is not holding the marketers that get access to this sensitive data accountable. This must change. Hold all marketers that get access to my smart meter data accountable. Please take these thoughts into consideration for PUC Project 34610. I'm sending this message to the PUC commissioners as well as my state senator and state representative.
