Re: Project No. 37142: Petition for Adoption of Emergency Disconnection Rule

Dear Commissioner:

I support the Petition for Adoption of Emergency Disconnection Rule filed by Representative Sylvester Turner and urge you to adopt a rule as soon as possible to protect residential consumers from having their electricity disconnected during the hot summer months.

As a person whose life has been affected by multiple sclerosis, I am particularly concerned about this issue. Hot summer temperatures combined with Texas' high utility rates leave many Texans with MS unable to cool their homes or afford their utility bills. Most people with MS experience worsening of symptoms when overheated. This can drastically affect the ability to function and presents serious health and safety risks.

On behalf of thousands of Texans with MS whose health and safety are at risk, I ask you to adopt the emergency disconnection rule.

Sincerely,

Virginia Downs

Dear sir,

I hope you consider passing act to prevent utility disconnection for disabled individuals (project # 37142). Having Multiple Sclerosis for 6 years, I know the challenges of extreme heat and this disability. I was a bicycle messenger in Houston for 9 years and I had to quit due to the heat and my health. Overheating makes me very dizzy, NO energy, and cognitive issues. Keeping disabled cool helps prevent problems before they start.

Thank you for your consideration, John Rittman (johnrittman@hotmail.com)
