The Public Utility Commission of Texas

I am writing today to make you aware of some personal concerns I have regarding the Over Transmission lines. "HHH" as its proposed comes into play with to many important things.

We have 3 disabled children here who suffer daily with retardation, Seizures + epilepsy. The likelihood of problems with cancer, being near these power lines (the distance from which is highly debated) increases for these little angels 2, or 3 times.

Very near my house (on the fringe near proposed H H H) are 3 of the cutest wonderful 1st grade girls. They are so full of energy and fun, but take time to come visit once a week. What a joy! Their brothers and other school boys are busy busy! You see, we have room to roam on our acre sites, so swimming, basketball, soccer and riding most anything that can be - is very common place.

Just across the way are some Sr. citizens who've come to enjoy our area with neighbors feet away instead of miles and in some cases - that's family. All the better!

The twin girls down the street are doing well now after their time in the neonatal intensive care unit. Everyone is relieved + thrilled! 939

O.K., so that makes us no more + no less special than any other neighborhood in our great state - EXCEPT we're threatened by high power transmission lines coming to potentially cause harm.

In our area are literally thousands of acres of pasture land, undeveloped pastures except for gas wells and pipelines. Lets see - thousand of acres - hundreds of citizens. How difficult can this be?

Because of additional housing areas hereabout, new schools are needed. How could our state government possibly allow the very route I've mentioned to pass 3 new schools (to be completed by 2012) and an existing elementary school?

I'm a capitalist and have a clear understanding of our need as a state + nation for more energy. I applaud the onear initiative, but sincerely question the cost to our population. There is no proof positive that lives + health would not be affected. There is no necessity to take that risk!

Therefore, I plead and beg you to please please remove HHH of possible consideration here in northern Tarrant County for the ongoing Onear development.

Sincerely + with Best Regards,
Cheryl Esser
