Comments in Docket No 38829

Sirs:

People from all over Texas know of the JA Ranch. Founded by Charles Goodnight and John Adair the year after the great Red River Wars on the ranch, the JA is a cultural and community value for the whole state. It remains in its pristine condition and we, like many more from all over the state, have been able to experience it as a perfect example of the west. A transmission line would be a blemish and would be visible for miles going through the flats off the caprock.

We would hope that PUC would force the line to use existing right of ways rather than cross this icon of ranches. At least, PUC should not allow any of the western routes that have been proposed.
