Dear Judge Duboise and Judge Vandrovec,

As an intervenor, I would like to reiterate my position regarding the Rayburn Electric route project for the New Hope Station. My original position still remains. I strongly object to the transmission line running near my property. The power lines affect not only wildlife, ground water contamination, and potential issues selling the property in the future. The power lines certainly could preclude a potential buyer after understanding the power lines are so close to the house. It is also, a terrible option to put a tap station next door to an elementary school.

My position is the best route options are any of the East route options especially because none of them are in McKinney. I do not understand how it makes sense to burden our community and city with the needs of another city and community. New Hope needs the station so the city should get the station in their city and community to meet the power needs of their city and community.

I would like you to strongly consider choosing one of the East routes as all of the West options are too close to homes and Tap A and B are too close to an elementary school.

Thank-you in advance for your consideration,

Bridgette Paul
