I am 1 of 26 homes along Meridian that back up to the green belt. We all paid a premium to live on these lots of at least 30k. If you choose to build power lines behind us, I for one, will be forced to consider my options. I have no intentions of living close to a power line for health reasons. Of course the property value will go down. How far, is anyone's guess, but if a number of people sell, that will just drive the market value even lower. Had I known there was even a remote change this could take place, I would have never bought this house. I do consider this my dream house and would hate to sell. Please consider other paths that are less intrusive.
